

BRADY UDALL

The Lonely Polygamist: A Novel
by Brady Udall

Through the story of a remarkable family at a crossroads, experience an array of joys, sorrows, faith, doubt and love, derivative of life in any modern family. Sad and beautiful, lonely and hopeful, this story holds a mirror to anyone who has been a father, mother, sister, brother, son or daughter.

2011 PNBA Book Award Winner

Pacific Northwest Book Awards

KARL MARLANTES

Matterhorn: A Novel of the Vietnam War
by Karl Marlantes

Gritty, intense, and captivating from the first page, Matterhorn is a masterpiece, shedding light on the complexities of the U.S. Marine combat experience in Vietnam. The riveting narrative takes the reader up and down the chain of command, creating empathy with nearly every character.

2011 PNBA Book Award Winner

Pacific Northwest Book Awards

ANTHONY DOERR

Memory Wall
by Anthony Doerr

Six stories, so beautifully and completely crafted, each leaving the reader to want more. Doerr writes like he's lived all over the world, revealing the human spirit, in as many different ways as there are places.

2011 PNBA Book Award Winner

Pacific Northwest Book Awards

SARAHILEE LAWRENCE

River House: A Memoir
by Sarahlee Lawrence

Lawrence can cover a couple of months' time within a short chapter and leave the reader feeling in possession of intimate knowledge of how each day played out—not through a barrage of details, but rather an artful mix of capturing the moment while never losing touch with the overall experience.

2011 PNBA Book Award Winner

Pacific Northwest Book Awards

NANCY PEARL

Book Lust, and more...
by Nancy Pearl

It is entirely possible that no one has put more good books into the hands of more grateful American readers, all the while reminding and educating them of the necessity of books, booksellers, and the public library as vital institutions in our democracy and our lives.

2011 PNBA Lifetime Achievement Award

Pacific Northwest Book Awards