WELCOME TO BOOKSELLING

Resources to support booksellers

American Booksellers Association (ABA) and BookWeb.org (BookWeb)

ABA is the national trade association that supports independent bookstores. BookWeb is ABA's website, featuring industry information, resources and educational offerings including on demand education, a resource library, and a podcast. Sign up here for a free account on BookWeb to access the entire site (including behind the firewall) and get your own member profile.

View BookWeb.org for ways to get involved with ABA >

Pacific Northwest Booksellers Association (PNBA)

PNBA represents the interests of literacy, free speech and independent bookselling in Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. Check out events and resources at pnba.org.

Shelf Awareness ("Shelf")

A free daily bookselling industry e-newsletter highlighting books, bookstores, publishers and the book industry.

Sign up for a free trade subscription on their website.

Professional Bookselling School & Certification Program (PBS)

PBS provides independent booksellers with virtual education and training, and accreditation. Your regional bookselling association may support discounts and/or free PBS courses.

The Book Industry Charitable Foundation ("Binc")

A nonprofit that helps booksellers with unexpected financial crises, industry scholarships for professional development, and free mental health support. Check out bincfoundation.org to learn more.

Bookselling This Week (BTW)

ABA's free weekly industry e-newsletter. Sign up for a free subscription here.

Publishers Weekly (PW)

Free weekly e-newsletters focused on the international book publishing business. Sign up for free subscriptions on their website.

The Independent Bookseller

A free weekly independent newsletter that shares deadlines, action items, and opportunities for independent booksellers. Sign up on their website.

Indie Next List/Kids Next List (INL & KNL)

ABA's list of book recommendations from independent booksellers across the country.

Nominate your favorite titles here!

ABA Forums

The ABA Forums are a place to talk business with fellow booksellers in general or around a shared model, genre, or topic. ABA Forums can be accessed through: forums.bookweb.org.

Also available are private identity-based forums. If joining for the first time, visit your Member Dashboard, click on Email Subscriptions, and join the group(s) you identify within. If you previously joined an identity based forum, you'll automatically have access to them here as well.

ShopTalks, New Member Series and more

ABA hosts regular virtual sessions for booksellers to network and learn from each other and experts on a range of topics relevant to bookselling today.

Learn more by visiting the ABA Events Calendar.

Free Books!

ADVANCE ACCESS — Underrepresented Voices

These programs give booksellers access to free galleys (pre-publication versions of new books), advance copies (pre-publication copies of new books also known as "ARCS"), finished copies of new books, and audiobooks.

Booksellers are automatically signed up for the main Advance Access list when they create a BookWeb login. If they'd also like to receive Underrepresented Voices, they should let their Member Relations Manager know. Managers are tagged in Civi on the bookseller's profile.

NetGalley free Digital Box, visit the General Member Resources on BookWeb | Edelweiss info, visit edelweiss.plus.
Free Audiobook Listening Copies (ALCs): create a free Libro.fm account and email bookstores@libro.fm.

American Booksellers Association @2026